The University has departments under the Faculty of Science, Faculty of Arts, Faculty of Social Sciences, and Faculty of Law being run on the campus. The faculties of these departments engage students in experiential learning whereby students “learn by doing” and by reflecting on the experience. Experiential learning activities include, but are not limited to, hands-on laboratory experiments, practical, field exercises, and studio performances. The activities that encourage active learning in the university classroom are encouraged. A wide range of teaching tools that ask students to apply what they are learning is considered, including solving exercises, cooperative student projects, informal group work, simulations, case studies, and role-playing. Additionally, small-group exercises, simulations, and case studies are blended with the technological and human resources available outside the classroom. The students make seminar presentations, write class tests and appear for practical exams. The students are provided an option to choose an activity. As the student is directly involved in the problem-solving activity or event, the level of his/her commitment is very high.

Various student centric activities used for enhancing their learning experiences are as under-
